SECTION 3 - PLANNING

NEEDS ASSESSMENT AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE PLAN

1. Regional Conversations. In spring 2014, SCRLC's Board of Trustees
3.1 Provide a summary describing the processes used to assess needs in the development of the Plan of Service. Conducted five regional town meetings to gather input into the 2016-2021 plan of service. The questions asked were: a) What was an SRLC activity where you felt the most engaged? b) What would members see and experience in a transformed SCRLC? c) What member-center programming would you like to see? d) How can SCRLC enhance collaboration? e) What might SCRLC stop doing? f) What kinds of positions can you imagine meeting your needs? Twenty-five SCRLC members participated. 2. Board Retreats. Two Board retreats focused on planning and strategic directions, held in 2013 and 2014. The June 2014 retreat brought together the Board and representatives from SCRLC’s six advisory committee to review, analyze, and add further input into the results of the 2014 regional conversations. They provided additional insight and ideas. 3. Field visits. In 2015, incorporating the questions from the regional conversations, the SCRLC executive director and staff librarians visited the majority of the membership, i.e., 59 members. A few Board members and advisory committee representatives accompanied the staff for some of the visits. The questions covered during the visits were sent to the members ahead of time to provide time for reflection. 4. Annual Meeting. The October 2015 annual meeting provided an additional opportunity for member input into SCRLC’s future direction. 5. Advisory Committees. The advisory committees provided input and ideas for goals, activities, and assessment strategies. 6. Needs Assessment Surveys. For the 2011-2016 Plan of Service, a large membership assessment survey was conducted. Due to the wide range of SCRLC programs and services, the results were predictable. For the 2016-2021 plan, a continuing education needs assessment was conducted as well as one for advocacy and resource sharing. Those, combined with the targeted questions asked of the membership during the regional conversations, field visits, committee meetings, and annual meeting provided SCRLC with meaningful results and new ideas. 3.2 Identify the groups involved in development of the Plan of Service and each group's role. SCRLC’s Board of Trustees established a Plan of Service Design Team; three Board members participated in the group. SCRLC’s Six Advisory Committees. The advisory committees reviewed the relevant sections of the plan and recommended new goals, activities, and assessment techniques. SCRLC’s membership participated in the Plan’s development through the regional conversations, field visits, annual meeting, and completing the needs assessment surveys. Additionally, groups were reached through networking meetings, including a library directors’ meeting held in September 2015. SCRLC’s Plan of Service Design Team. This group was the most directly involved in weaving together a new Plan of Service. They reviewed the 2011-2016 Plan and recommended changes. Members of the Team are as follows: Pamela Ameigh, Ithaca College; Ellen Bahr, Alfred University; Susan Bretscher, Lourdes Hospital; Jill Dixon, Binghamton University; Susan LeBlanc, DCMO School Library System; Aprille Nace, Corning Museum of Glass; Alfonso Oliveras, Southern Tier Library System; Virginia Trow, SUNY College of Technology at Delhi; Elizabeth Wavle-Brown, Elmira College; Gail Wood, SUNY Cortland. EVALUATION 3.9 Describe the information to be collected in order to evaluate and determine members’ satisfaction with the system’s services. In addition to the targeted questions about future directions for the Council, current programs and services were reviewed with the membership during field visits, advisory committee meetings, and needs assessment surveys. The regional conversations also provided a sounding board for issues and new ideas. Each year the advisory committees evaluated their areas to determine what was working and to recommend activities and paths to achieve the intended results; formal needs assessment surveys have grown out of this process. Evaluation forms were distributed at SCRLC learning opportunities. Those instruments ask if the program met expectations, how participants’ confidence grew as a result of engaging, and how the information would be used and shared within their institutions. SCRLC also reviewed specific programs, e.g. AskUs 24/7 virtual reference. Every year, the eight SCRLC participants were asked if they want to continue participation, SCRLC reviewed use statistics, and... passed along comments or suggestions for the service to the program administrator. At the onset of the last Plan of Service, SCRLC administered a nationwide text-reference collaborative (My Info Quest). Due to declining statistics and minimal participation by the memberships (i.e., 2 members), SCRLC discontinued its participation. New York Heritage collections were reviewed for changes in use statistics and qualitative data from users. The NYH participants were contacted periodically regarding their needs and to find out how SCRLC might continue to assist them. SCRLC's Advisory Committee on Information Technology and Services (ACITS) scanned the region in 2013 for databases held in an effort to identify gaps that SCRLC could address. Through that process and in the field visits SCRLC learned that it needed to provide more transparency in how it selects electronic resources to offer the region. This resulted in a newsletter article and information added to the electronic resources section of our website. Out of the regional conversations came the idea for an All-Advisory Committee that would be comprised of the leadership or other members of each of the advisory committees that would meet two or three times a year to plan, coordinate, and review programs and services. This was implemented in 2015. SCRLC prepared for each member an individualized "annual report card" containing contributions to SCRLC and benefits of their membership. The report included the electronic resources statistics, the number of programs attended, RBDB monies the member might have received, the number of objects added to New York Heritage, their AskUs 24/7 statistics (if they participated), etc. The "report card" was reviewed during field visits.

3.11 Provide the URL for the results of the member evaluation.
https://scrlc.org/Plan-of-Service-Needs-Assessment/Documents

3.12 Describe how the information on customer satisfaction will be used to shape the system's plan in the next year or in the following planning cycle.

The information gathered via the regional conversations, field visits, advisory committee meetings, Board meetings/retreats, and various networking meetings were used to formulate the goals for the next five years and develop the intended results. SCRLC engages in a formative evaluation process, that is, each year the Plan is used by the Board and advisory committees to develop activities comprising a Work Plan. The information gathered in the needs assessments, conversations, and program evaluation enables SCRLC to identify programs to offer as well as topics and presenters for the learning opportunities offered. The advisory committees reviewed statistics and any evaluation forms in their respective area (there is an advisory committee covering all SCRLC programs and services). The Board of Trustees, which meets six to seven times per year reviews committee minutes and reports from the executive director that include accomplishments, activities, and any concerns. For any program that is collaborative with other 3Rs Councils (e.g., New York Heritage), any customer satisfaction data received is shared with our partners. SCRLC uses any data received to shape the annual Work Plan, which comprises activities for all programs and services and is derived from the Plan of Service.

REVISION PROCESS

3.13 Describe the process for revising the system's Plan of Service for submission to the New York State Education Department/New York State Library.

Each year, SCRLC's Board of Trustees reviews the past year's Work Plan's accomplishments and approves the following year's Work Plan. The goals and intended results of the five year Plan of Service are broadly written with solid input from the membership and are not expected to change within the five-year period; however, there may be more relevant activities designed to lead us to the intended results. If there were a major element added to the Plan, the Board would initially approve it prior to its submission to DLD.
SCRLC's Mission, Vision, Guiding Principles. South Central Regional Library Council envisions a future where New York State residents have equity of access to information and resources anywhere, anytime. In this environment: â€¢ NYS students, educators, lifelong learners, and residents locate and obtain information and resources efficiently and cost-effectively. â€¢ Library workers acquire necessary skills through affordable, relevant, and innovative SCRLC-sponsored learning opportunities. â€¢ Members extend their funds and Return on Investment (ROI) through networking, shared technology, partnerships, and collaborative opportunities. â€¢ NYS students, educators, lifelong learners, residents, and library workers are strong advocates for libraries and library systems. â€¢ Residents have access to well-informed healthcare professionals. â€¢ Member libraries and their users benefit from relevant and effective SCRLC-sponsored knowledge-based consulting services. Strategic Directions The Strategic Directions provide clarity and help articulate our vision, mission, and guiding principles, which will lead to their realization. The Directions flow from and expand on the last Plan of Service. The Council has a long history of careful and purposeful planning, which has resulted in strategic directions that remain relevant in today's rapidly changing environment. As such, it was more logical to build on the existing strategic directions than to abandon them. The five Strategic Directions are an integral part of the Program & Services Goals, Activities, and Intended Results that appear in the following pages: 1. Through Council-sponsored education and learning opportunities, regional library workers will have necessary skills and knowledge for providing services in a rapidly changing information environment. 2. Students, educators, lifelong learners, and residents will obtain information and materials quickly and cost-effectively through collaborative efforts of libraries to share resources. 3. Students, educators, lifelong learners, and residents will have access to relevant information and services anywhere, anytime. 4. Members will receive customized consulting services to meet their individual needs. 5.
